

JooHwan Kim is a vision scientist in Nvidia's New Experience research group based in Santa Clara, California. JooHwan received his Ph.D. from Seoul National University in 2009, and was a postdoctoral fellow in University of California, Berkeley until 2015.

JooHwan's current interests are in understanding and improving viewer experience of various types of displays, especially regarding esports.